Community Partners - Children's Day

2012 was a very good year for the museum division. The increase in community visitation and support serves to remind our staff and boards that the museums are all about people! Everything we do large and small, exciting and mundane is intended to benefit our many visitors by imparting interesting, entertaining and educational glimpses into our past while teaching the necessity of protecting our natural assets for the future.

As you will see from this report, we would not be where we are today without your generous and continuing patronage. The support at all levels: Friends memberships, event sponsorships, service through hours and in-kind donations of supplies, materials, and artifacts, help us accomplish our many goals. We thank you for being our "Partners for Preservation!"

Mission Statement

The St. Mary's County Museum Division was instituted by the St. Mary's County Board of County Commissioners to collect, preserve, research and interpret the historic sites and artifacts that illustrate the natural and cultural histories of St. Clement's Island and the Potomac River, the Piney Point Lighthouse and the Chesapeake Bay, and the Drayden African American and Charlotte Hall schoolhouses.

With this as its charter, the Museum Division serves as a resource, liaison and community advocate for all St. Mary's County public and private cultural assets.
