Northern Senior Activity Center Recognized for Outstanding Performance

Leonardtown, MD – On June 8, the Department of Aging & Human Services' Northern Senior Activity Center was recognized with two Programs of Excellence awards. The Maryland Association of Senior Centers (MASC) honored the center with the Nutrition & Health Promotions Program Award, as well as an Honorable Mention for Special Events.

The MASC Programs of Excellence Awards contest is designed to honor and promote the outstanding efforts made by senior centers to enhance program offerings for seniors. The Northern Senior Activity Center won first place in the Nutrition and Health Promotions category for their long-time and ongoing partnership with the nursing program at the College of Southern Maryland (CSM) to offer a semi-annual wellness clinic.

“We at the Department of Aging & Human Services enjoy the cooperation of CSM and are pleased to have the opportunity to work together,” said Lori Jennings-Harris, Department of Aging and Human Services director. “I am proud of the staff at the Northern Senior Activity Center and the outstanding work they do to make the lives of seniors even better.”
